A hand-drawn sketch map on a piece of paper. The map shows a central intersection. A road runs horizontally across the top, with a dashed line and 'x' marks along its left side. To the left of this road is the label 'ĐI TRÁ CÚ'. To the right, it continues as a solid line. A road runs vertically down from the intersection, labeled 'ĐI KINH THÁI NAI'. A road runs diagonally down and to the left from the intersection, labeled 'ĐI HÃM GIANG'. A road runs diagonally up and to the right from the intersection, labeled 'ĐI NGOC BIÊN'. At the top left, there is a label 'KHO VỰC CHÙA TRĂ TRÒ'. Near the intersection, there are points labeled 'A', 'B', and 'C'. Point 'C' is marked with a small cross and a square, with the number '133' next to it. Point 'A' is at the top right intersection, and point 'B' is at the bottom intersection.
